

It was a normal day in the art room. The beautiful works of others lay decoratively on the wall acting as a silent encouragement for students having lessons. But some of the art works were ripped.

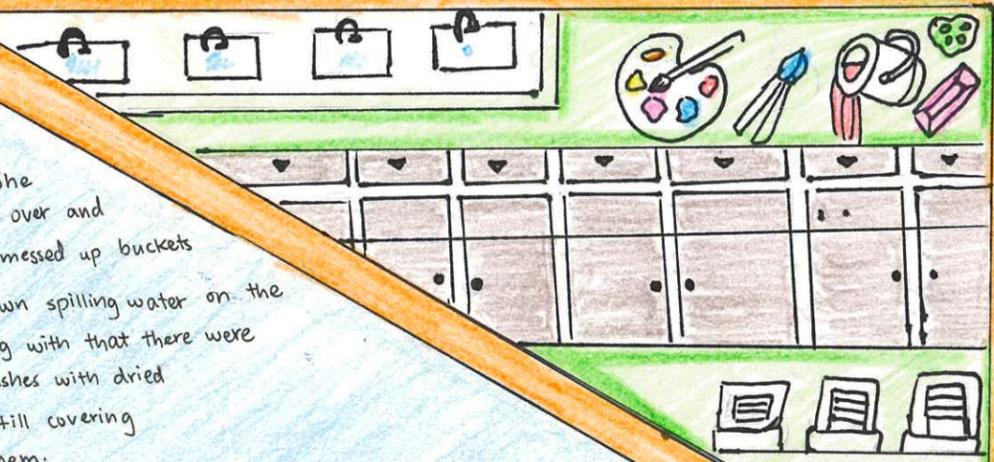

2E'S HOMEWORK FINISH YOUR COMIC FRAME

There was a girl. She was working on her painting. While she is working she notices the art teacher struggling to clean up the mess at the sink area.

She walked over and noticed the messed up buckets laying upside down spilling water on the surface along with that there were paint brushes with dried paint still covering them.

She sees her classmates not paying any attention to mess made. She quickly gathers them and convinces them to clean up after themselves. So all nine students cleaned up the sink area.
